

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A measuring device for measuring gearing and diameters in rotationally symmetrical components (2). The device possesses a fixed feeler pin (9) and a movable feeler pin (10). The movable feeler pin (10), with the aid of a spring actuated mechanism (14), automatically confines the measurable component (2) in a defined measurement position.